

30 Years of T.O.M.: OneRepublic rocks the season ending in Ischgl

On 3 May 2025, the Idalp in Ischgl, situated at 2,320 metres above sea level, was once again transformed into a spectacular open-air stage: the American pop rock band OneRepublic celebrated the 30th anniversary of the legendary “Top of the Mountain Closing Concert”. With global hits such as “Counting Stars”, “Apologize” and “I Ain’t Worried”, the Grammy-nominated band led by frontman Ryan Tedder thrilled the audience and delivered an unforgettable end to the winter season.

This year marked the 30th anniversary of the legendary “Top of the Mountain Closing Concert”, once again attracting guests from all over the world to Ischgl. With OneRepublic – one of the most successful bands in the world – the stage at 2,320 metres became a centre of music and emotion. Their high-energy live performance, enjoyed in spring-like temperatures, provided a musical highlight that will remain long in the memories of the more than 16.000 winter sports enthusiasts in attendance. The concert was the crowning finale of the “Spring Blanc” event series, which combines winter sports, lifestyle, and fine cuisine in the Silvretta Arena. Since 1995, the “Top of the Mountain” concert series has been thrilling audiences with world-class performances and extraordinary concerts in the heart of the Silvretta Arena. With this year’s performance by OneRepublic, “30 Years of T.O.M.” was fittingly celebrated, continuing the long-standing success story of this iconic event in impressive fashion. The emotional ending of the show was marked by a firework display, lighting up the overcast sky above the Idalp in vivid colours – a fitting conclusion to “30 Years of T.O.M.”.

Two million skier days: a milestone for Ischgl

Another highlight of the 2024/25 winter season was the Silvrettaseilbahn AG welcoming its two-millionth passenger on 26 April 2025. This impressive figure underscores the popularity and appeal of the Silvretta Arena among winter sports enthusiasts from around the globe. It was the first time since 2019 that this milestone had been reached again, reflecting the successful development and sustainable investments made in the ski resort.

Three new 8-seater D-Line chairlifts with weather protection covers and seat heating by winter 2026/27

By the 2026/27 winter season, Silvrettaseilbahn AG will have invested around 50 million euros in three state-of-the-art 8-seater D-Line chairlifts with weather protection covers, heated seats, and the innovative AURO system, which enables automatic entry and exit monitoring. In 2025, the Höllbodenbahn C1 and the Sassgalunbahn C3 will enter operation, followed by the Höllkarbahn C2 in 2026. These new chairlifts will replace existing installations, increase transport capacity, improve flow
